Dear Sir ,

I am a positive, enthusiastic and qualified web developer who has developed a diverse range of skills, qualities and attributes over the years, ensuring that I will perform highly in this role. I have extensive experience working with often time-sensitive, challenging web development projects, both alone and as part of a team. For which outstanding creative and technical skills and the ability to ensure that all work is optimized across a wide range of platforms are developed. I take my job as a web developer seriously and that means I always make sure my skills are kept up to date in this fast changing industry. I take my work as a web developer seriously and this means I always ensure my skills are kept up to date within this rapidly changing industry. If you hire me as a web developer, I assure you I will fit into your team quickly, I always put the commercial needs of your business at the front-end of every thing I do, and the work I carry out will be consistently to a first class standard.

Why I want to work for Your company as a web Developer / Web Programmer?

There are a lot of web developer jobs out there, but I want one where I'll be challenged and put the skills and qualities I've developed to good use. I did a lot of research on your organization before submitting my resume/CV, and the work you do, the products and services you offer, and the way your employees support me, tell me it's a great place to work. I'm looking for long-term employment with the same company where I can really immerse myself in their brand and their online ambitions, and this is really the only place I want to work as a web developer.

My Plan for a web development project is :

There are eight basic steps I use whenever I plan a web development project. The planning phase is crucial to the success of the project. Step 1 : I will define the project goals and specify the objectives and budget, what we want to achieve and when. Step Two : I will discuss and establish wireframes, ensuring compliance with Google's best practice guidelines, including how the website will function. Step Three: I will deploy the content that will be used during the launch and the content strategy will proceed. Content is king and I am keen to ensure that the content is fresh and more importantly, that it meets the needs of the end user. Step Four : I will establish the design and functionality of the website and these will be built around the wireframe and content strategy of the website. Step 5: I will determine the team of people involved and who I will use to coordinate the project. This may include the use of outsourcers for certain elements of the project, including graphics design. Step 6: I will put everything into a specific action plan before I start working. Step Seven: Finally step eight will test the website extensively across different browsers and mobile and desktop devices to assess its speed and performance before launching. Q : What will you bring to our company as a web developer? I will bring a quick peace of mind to work, which will provide in-depth technical knowledge and understanding of what is currently working within your industry from a web development perspective. I bring strong project management skills, team working abilities and professional web development and performance critical to your organization's success. Finally, I bring a positive mindset, the ability to fit into a team and an overriding passion for web development that I believe you will witness in the results I create for you.

At last I want to say about me and my weakness. I hope you consider my case and help to go ahead. I can't speak English very well because I'm a native Bengali speaker! In all schools and colleges of our country, all subjects are taught and explained in Bengali! But I am trying to master the English language as quickly as possible! If you give me the opportunity to work with your team, I will adapt myself very quickly and lead your company to progress with my best efforts! But don't judge my work skills, my speech or general behavior! You can test me if you want, and verify my skills and qualifications! And I hope I can satisfy you! Insha-Allah!
